A Message from Kathy Smith

The dog days of summer are upon us. With heat and humidity come lethargy and exhaustion. While many of us may be feeling a little tired and a little slow, things are continuing to run at an express pace here in the Sully District. We've got some exciting events and happenings just around the corner that I want to share with you.

First and foremost, on Tuesday, August 18th at 2pm, in collaboration with DeLune Corporation, my office is hosting a drive-thru food distribution. We will be providing dairy boxes that contain a week's supply of necessary nutrition free of charge. We are grateful to Mt. Olive Baptist Church for letting us use their parking lot to host this event. For more information, please see the flyer attached in this newsletter.

On Wednesday, August 19th at 5pm, my office is teaming with the Children's Science Center to present a free online science assembly for the children in our district. This event is open to everyone and will provide exciting stimulation for the young minds of our district as they get ready to head back to school in a couple of weeks. If your children like watching fun science experiments happen in real time, they won't want to miss this! I've included a copy of the flyer for this event below for more information.

As August winds down, so will the Census. Our nation continues to make efforts to get as accurate a count as possible, and you still have time to fill out the census by going to 2020Census.gov. I urge everyone to please fill out the census so that we can get the vital federal dollars needed in proportion to our population. The census will conclude on September 30th.

On a larger level, just this week, the Virginia State Supreme Court extended Governor Northam's eviction moratorium to September 7th, 2020. This will provide residents with extra time to assess their individual situations and make the choices that are best for them. Additional information can be found here.

The Virginia General Assembly will be convening for a Special Session on August 18 in order to finalize the budget for the two-year cycle of 2020 through 2022 and address additional policy recommendations. This process had been postponed in order to allow for a full analysis of the impact of COVID-19. Please take a look at Governor Northam's press release for more details.

Lastly, I'd like to close with a reminder that while we have nationally relaxed to some degree, COVID-19 is still very problematic due to its virulence. This virus has actively infected well over 5 million Americans. With all of that in mind, please take due diligence to keep yourself safe by wearing a mask when you go out and by continuing to practice safe social distancing, which in some cases might mean remaining safer at home.

Sincerely,
